Membership description:

Memberships are renewable on an annual or multi-year basis. The membership year is from January through December. Electronic members do NOT receive the mailed Mycena News or the annual Roster; these are available to all members on-line.

Privacy notice:

The MSSF annually publishes a membership roster with the names, address, and phone numbers of all members. This list is intended for the personal use of members only. The MSSF very occasionally provides its mailing list to mycological businesses. If you don't want your name included on such a list, please check this box:

If you have reservations about your personal information being published in the roster, please contact the membership chair.

Mycological Society of San Francisco Membership Application

The Mycological Society of San Francisco is the largest amateur mushroom society in the United States. We were formed in 1950 to provide education and scientific information about mycology to our membership and the general public.

We hold monthly meetings featuring mycologists and other guest speakers from around the world. We also organize forays into the field to introduce people to mushroom identification, habitat, edibility, cooking techniques, and the joy of mushrooming.

To further keep our members informed, we share information in our monthly newsletter, the Mycena News, that includes field reports, mycological articles, and recipes. We hold classes, both beginning and advanced, that range from basic mushroom identification to mushroom cultivation, photography, and workshops on specific fungal genera.

The MSSF is an affiliated club of the North American Mycological Association. Our members qualify for reduced membership fees. Members may participate in mycological events throughout the U.S., Canada, and Mexico.

Once a year, we hold our largest event, the Fungus Fair, to expose the general public to matters mycological. It features expert speakers, educational exhibits, and vendors. The Fair also brings our members together to collect, identify, and display mushrooms from all around the Bay Area.

Members receive these benefits:

- ◆ A monthly newsletter during the nine months of the mushroom season
- ◆ Membership in the MSSF email discussion group
- ◆ Use of the MSSF library
- ◆ Discounts on books, tee-shirts, and paid forays
- ◆ An annual membership roster

Members who choose E-membership at a reduced rate must download copies of the Mycena News and the roster from the MSSF website.
